Regional (County-Wide) Studies

Land Use: The staff assisted Land Use Plan developed by the Land Use Study Committee last year was adopted by the CITY OF Bloomington, Town of Normal, and the County for the urban area and its environs. Based on this Land Use Plan, the staff is developing a set of land use policies that will address the following concerns: where growth should and should not occur; the type, intensity, and timing of development implementing procedures needed to effectively guide development decisions; and develop mechanisms needed to coordinate land use policies with other development issues such as providing public utilities and community facilities.

Human Services: Staff has organized two subcommittees designed to comprehensively analyze and evaluate human services throughout McLean County. One subcommittee deals with inventorying existing human services, determining unmet needs, and establishing goals and objectives. Working within this framework, staff has completed the first component of the Human Services Inventory-Mental Health and Related Services. Human Services Goals and Objectives, completed in February, 1976, serves as criteria for planning and implementing a more efficient and effective human services' delivery system in McLean County (Goals and Objectives is scheduled for publication by H.E.W. through their Clearinghouse Project Share). The other subcommittee is working to complete an examination of the existing human services' delivery system with the goal of suggesting alternative strategies.

Staff has also granted technical assistance for the development and solicitation of a Mexican American Needs Survey and Study Committee for McLean County, provided coordinative services and research assistance to the McLean County Funder's Council and the Township Review Committee, and become involved in areawide health planning. Staff continually provides technical assistance to social service agencies in the community in the areas of staff development, management information systems, and program design.

Comprehensive Development Guide: The staff has completed the preliminary draft of the above report. The Guide is designed to serve as policy for reference and use by local governmental bodies, agencies, and citizens throughout McLean County. The Guide is categorized into six major functional areas including land use, transportation, community facilities, housing, environmental quality, and human services. The purpose of the Guide is to assist in making decisions which have planning and development implications for McLean County.

Transportation: The staff continued the work on the reevaluation of the 1990 Transportation Plan for McLean County. Some of the planning activities that were completed include: The Transportation Systems Management Plan in which all modes are considered as solutions to transportation deficiencies in the area; the Transportation Improvement Program which lists capital improvement projects by jurisdiction for both annual elements and multi-year listing; the Prospectus which is a summary of transportation issues facing the area and of existing planning programs; a new base map of the Bloomington-Normal urbanized area was drawn; and the physical and operational inventory of the functionally classified streets and highways was accomplished.
